

The Great Journey: The Buddha's Life is Our Own

A One-Day Retreat with Larry Yang and John Mifsud
Open to All

This daylong retreat will explore the relationship between the archetypal journey of the Life of the Buddha and our personal, contemporary lives. The Buddha's life story is parallel to ours regardless of our diverse backgrounds. His historic life is accessible, and can inspire how we live our lives today. We all have callings, go forth, face struggles and return home. Our entry into the universal journey of human awakening can likewise reflect the Buddha's intention. We can all be free from suffering with a heart that excludes no one.

This daylong is open to both beginning and experienced practitioners and includes guided meditations, reflections, small and large group discussions, journaling and storytelling.
